

The Michigan State University Science Festival &
The Department of Religious Studies
Present

Science and Religion Through History

Topics will include neuroscience and meditation, Charles Darwin, Rachel Carson, and Jesuit contemplative practices.

- Thursday, April 18th
- 7:00pm
- C106 Holmes Hall

Join us for this compelling panel discussion examining how religion and science connect, often in unexpected ways. The panelists include:

Dr. Richard Bellon
Dr. Mark Waddell
- Lyman Briggs College

as well as

Dr. Gretel Van Wieren
Dr. Arthur Versluis
- Department of Religious Studies,
College of Arts and Letters

An open discussion, including a Q&A period, will follow the panel discussion.

For more information about this event, visit
Religiousstudies.msu.edu/index.php/events/

For more information about the MSU Science Festival, visit
Sciencefestival.msu.edu